Central Branch Railroad

The Marshall County Railroad Historical Society (MCRHS) operates the Central Branch Railroad (CBRR) on approximately 12 miles of track in SW Marshall County, KS. The MCRHS offers several excursion rides leaving from either Blue Rapids or Waterville, KS. The feature ride travels east from Blue Rapids across the Big Blue River. The Big Blue River bridge is approximately 540 feet long and 85 feet above the river below. A spectacular view!

An effort to purchase the track being abandoned by the Union Pacific RR began in the fall of 1999. MCRHS became a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization in May of 2000 and rides began in 2002.

Reservations

Our operating season generally runs from April 1 thru October 31. Weather permitting we can offer rides at other times of the year. Our two passenger cars can accommodate groups as large as 32-35 depending on the number of adults and children. Typical rides include family gatherings, clubs, school groups and even nursing homes. We generally have a special Whistle Stop History ride in the spring or early summer and a ride with a hot dog roast in the fall. For reservations contact Ann at 785-363-2343 (Home) or 785-799-4294 (Cell).

Celebrate at "Somewhere"

The Waterville Lions Club donated a 20 ft x 20 ft shelter located in an open area west of Waterville. The MCRHS has named this picnicking spot "Somewhere". The shelter is used for special events including a "cookout" in the fall with hot dogs, cowboy beans and s'mores. The shelter can also be rented for celebrations and family gatherings in conjunction with a ride. The rental fee is $15 plus the ride fare. There is a primitive outhouse restroom on site.

Central Branch Union Pacific

The Central Branch Union Pacific Railroad (CBUP) was originally incorporated in 1859 as the Atchison and Pikes Peak Railroad with plans to build westward to the Colorado border. Construction began in 1860. In 1867 the name was changed to the Central Branch Union Pacific although the CBUP did not come under UP ownership until 1869.

The first 100 miles of the CBUP ended at the present town of Waterville. The CBUP crossed the Big Blue River on December 21, 1867. An inspection ride from Atchison to Waterville occurred on January 17, 1868. Waterville was a booming cattle town in 1868 and 1869. The shipping of cattle ended with a quarantine against shipping Texas cattle from eastern Kansas.

Over the Years

The Central Branch Railroad is one of the oldest and longest historical railroads in Kansas. It has a rich history of bringing settlers and their families west helping to establish towns in SW Marshall County.

Other significant uses include being

- a shipping point for turkeys driven from Beloit,
- part of the original Orphan Train route delivering homeless children from the east to the midwest so local farm families could adopt them (orphans were adopted from the stage of the opera house in Blue Rapids in 1883),
- a designated route to transfer WWII German POWs to the POW camp northeast of Concordia, Kansas and
- a mode of transportation for hobos (Musil Farms between Blue Rapids and Waterville was known as a good place to get a meal).
